TriForce is the Canadian built end to end management solution for growing small and medium size businesses. It is integrated, scalable, flexible, and easy to use.

Integrated – all modules seamlessly and completely assimilate to give you the most accurate, real time global picture of your key performance indices.

Scalable – you can easily increase your number of users or companies, as well as, the number and type of modules you need as your business evolves.

Flexible – the unique needs of your different departments, users, companies, and geographical locations are easily accommodated without customization.

Easy to Use – features like consistency of design, user preference setup features, and task or role focused control panels make for quick learning.

TriForce is engineered and developed from the ground up by us – it is a nuclear rather than a blended solution. It automates the finance and accounting departments as elegantly as it does the customer service department, the warehouse, or the shop floor. All data is shared across the entire enterprise, as well as, with your remote locations or your trading partners, in real time. It provides unprecedented options for viewing, analyzing, manipulating, and outputting critical information necessary to make key business decisions that will increase efficiency and improve your bottom line.

How TriForce looks and functions is a direct result of user controlled, company specific or enterprise wide, setup options. These options allow you to tailor the software so it mirrors the practices that give you your competitive advantage.

Most importantly, they give you control over your software without requiring customization and incurring the associated expense. These setup options will allow you to change your way of doing business or change your type of business altogether without reinvesting in new software. We ensure that all your setups are automatically respected during any update or upgrade which is triggered by the click of a mouse on your desktop and is seamless regardless of how many versions of the software you are moving through.

We work hard to make TriForce the highly tuned engine that it is. That means we can offer you competitive pricing and short, fixed term, guaranteed implementation periods. We follow up our implementations with very responsive, 24/7/365 support that includes unlimited support, updates, upgrades, and on-site visits. We also offer quality professional services to assist you with your growth and evolution and to help you make the most of your opportunities.
